AVERAGE FAMILY IN U. S. 4.3 PERSONS

Census Shows Decrease for the Last Decade-5.1 Persons to a Dwelling.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Decrease during the last decade in the average number of persons in a family and to a dwelling in the United States is indicated by comparative statistics made public to-day by the Census Bureau. The 1920 census showed, a statement said, that the Nation's population was grouped into 24,851,478 families residing in 20,697,004 dwellings, making an average of 4.3 persons to a family and 5.1 persons to a dwelling.

In 1910 the average number of persons to a family was 4.5 and to a dwelling 5.2. The average in both cases was still higher in 1880—5 persons to a family and 5.5 persons to a dwelling—and has declined steadily stores.

since.

The Census Bureau applies the term "family" to a group of persons whether related by blood or not, living together in one household. One person living alone is counted as a family, while the occupants of a hotel or institution, regardless of their number, are considered one family.

number, are considered one family. An entire apartment house, although the home of many families, constitutes only one dwelling in the Census Bureau's classification.

The average to a family in 1920 ranged from 3.5 in Nevada to 5 in North Carolina, and to a dwelling from 3.7 in Nevada to 7.8 in New York.
